

Margin – The Journal of Applied Economic Research

Aims and Scope of the Journal

The journal is a focal point for the dissemination of empirical information and research findings in the broad areas of applied economics. A major emphasis is on empirical papers with significant policy implications, particularly paper with evidence-based policy analysis that apply modern quantitative techniques to sound data sets. It is aimed at encouraging economic research and analysis to achieve a deeper understanding of the dynamics of development processes for effective policy making. The issues covered will have a broad scope of national and international importance. Over the years Margin—The Journal of Applied Economic Research has emerged as an important source of analysis on policy issues for India and other countries, especially in Asia.

Notes for Contributors

Margin—The Journal of Applied Economic Research is a refereed journal. Papers submitted to it should make either a methodological contribution in applied economic research or a contribution to policy discussion. In this sense, papers may not report only empirical research but also conceptual viewpoints. They can relate to any branch of applied economic research, and may also draw from important findings from research projects.

Contributions to the journal should be original papers and not be under consideration for any other publication at the same time. If another version of the article is under consideration by another publication, or has been, or will be published elsewhere, authors should clearly indicate this at the time of submission.

Submission Guidelines

Journal papers should be submitted electronically to abhasin@ncaer.org or to managingeditor.margin@gmail.com. Papers may be up to 8,000 words in length, including figures and tables. Contributors must include their affiliations, postal and e-mail addresses with their papers.

Each journal paper must be accompanied by an abstract of around 200 words. It should also list JEL classifications and keywords used in the paper. The responsibility for copyediting the journal paper lies with the contributors, although the publisher will provide a final, light copyedit. The use of English spellings (UK or US) should be consistent throughout the paper. Poorly written papers will not be considered for further processing.
